A 42-year trek through public education

Michael Caparula

Community College Teacher and WIU alum

Michael Caparula will be speaking about his 24 years of experience as a high school and community college mathematics teacher. With this, he will reflect how his formative years of schooling, five years at WIU, and two years at the University of Illinois have helped shape his philosophy of education.

All are warmly welcome to come in with questions and comments because he will be including the audience in his presentation.

Pizza and drinks will be available. If you have any questions or ideas for future meetings, please email Shaikh at s-obaidullah@wiu.edu.
